

Does Travelocity offer senior discounts?

Does Travelocity Offer Senior Discounts? While Travelocity doesn't have a universal senior discount program, seniors (typically 65+) may find age-based savings on select flights or hotel deals when available. Discounts often depend on the airline or property and may not be shown online, so contacting customer service or checking the "Senior" option during search can help uncover offers. For support, call Travelocity at +1 866 694 6260 (US).

Travelocity offers specialized senior vacation rentals (typically for ages 65+) and showcases discounts through partnership programs like AARP, which can include up to 10% off hotels and 30% off rental cars. Senior-specific rates are often highlighted in search results rather than a single sitewide coupon code.

Yes, Travelocity may offer limited senior discounts, but they are not guaranteed on every booking. In most cases, Travelocity does not have a fixed or universal senior discount; instead, any savings usually depend on the airline, hotel, or travel provider included in the booking. Some airlines offer special fares for travelers aged 60 or 65 and older, and those discounted fares may appear when searching on Travelocity if they are available.

In short, Travelocity itself does not consistently advertise a standard senior discount, but seniors can still sometimes find age-based fares or promotional deals depending on the route, airline policy, and travel dates.

Travelocity offers special, limited senior fares for travelers aged 65 and older on certain flights. These discounts are not available for all routes and must be requested by selecting "Senior 65+" in the passenger type dropdown menu during the booking process on Travelocity.com.
